

Document Management Made Easy

One Touch Document Management

What if document management was easy? So easy that you didn't even need to think about it. Something you could do every day with the touch of a button. You simply go to the copier, push a button, and forget about it. That's it.

1DocStop —one touch document management— will revolutionize your organization. It will save time, money, and will dramatically simplify your business. It was designed with your pocketbook in mind, and costs hundreds, not thousands to get started. It is the last document management solution your organization will ever need.

Instead of having piles of paper and electronic files spread out across your office and network, you have a simple solution. A secured document management repository accessible anywhere, anytime via the Internet ...yet your paper files never leave the office. No more looking for electronic and paper documents in different locations. 1DocStop is just what the name says: the single repository for all your paper and electronic files.

It's As Easy As Pressing "Start"...

One touch document management will revolutionize your organization. It will save time, money, and will dramatically simplify your business.

Instead of paying for expensive, complicated new hardware and software, use what you already have – your office copier.
